

2021 Virtual First Flight Field Trip Frequently Asked Questions

Will the 2021 First Flight Field trip be held at Honda Center?

No, due to continued restrictions due to COVID-19, the 2021 First Flight Field Trip has been converted to an online all digital curriculum.

Can I or other educators still sign up?

Yes, please visit <https://www.ducksscore.com/FirstFlight.aspx> to register for the First Flight Field Trip. Because we are offering the program as a digital curriculum there is no limit on registrations or geographic restrictions. All are welcome.

What will I receive for signing up?

You will receive (4) Google Slides links featuring a lesson/activity from our past four field trip themes. There will be one link per theme (ice, energy, engineering, and electricity) provided to the listed registration contact. These links can be shared with students or other educators.

When will I receive these links?

We will distribute the curriculum on March 3, 2021.

Will there be workbooks or activity kits?

No, we will not be distributing workbooks or activity kits this year.

Will the 2022 First Flight Field Trip be at Honda Center?

Yes, our plan is to return to our traditional event format as soon as conditions allow. We are hopeful that 2022 will see us hosting you and your students at Honda Center, interacting with community partners, and watching science demonstrations from Anaheim Ducks players!

What is next year's theme?

Cool Like Ice! We'll present the science behind creating and maintaining the ice sheet here at Honda Center. Players will demonstrate how it affects performance and why it takes truly dynamic athletes to play hockey.
